Portfolio Submission

Guidelines for Preparing Candidate Portfolios

1. Statement of teaching philosophy / practice: This should be a self reflective statement of your beliefs and practice related to teaching and learning (3-5 page limit).
2. Teaching portfolio: The Committee on Effective Teaching recommends a 50 page limit for the teaching portfolio (This should include):
 - List of prior teaching awards that you have received.
 - For undergraduate instruction award - list of undergraduate courses you have taught in the last 5 years, with semester, year and total enrollment for each.
For graduate / profession instruction award - list the graduate courses you have taught in the past 5 years, with semester, year and total enrollment for each.
 - List of academic related interactions with students beyond the classroom such as sponsorship of student organization, sponsorship of scholastic fraternities, field experiences and research.
 - Evidence of your commitment to teaching including mentoring undergraduate students, service learning, engagement, advising and thesis advising.
 - Sample teaching materials including specific examples of teaching innovations, curriculum development and scholarship of teaching and learning.
3. Curriculum vitae
4. Three sample syllabi (not necessarily three different courses) that you have taught in the last three years are required. You may submit more than three if that will better represent the variety of courses you teach.
